II. Internal control mechanisms ensuring quality of SRUK's credit rating activities

Introduction

SRUK outsources its internal control functions to SRG. The internal control mechanisms of SRUK’s parent also apply to SRUK. In addition, it has a dedicated UK Compliance Officer and a Board with two Independent Non-Executive Directors (INEDs).

Governance

Two INEDs are members of the Board of SRUK. SRUK's governance structures are designed to comply with CRA Regulation, ensuring appropriate management oversight for international credit rating activities. As a subsidiary of SRG, SRUK operates in coordination with its parent. The governance structures of SRUK's parent are set up to meet the requirements of the EU Regulation and applicable regional and national laws and to provide for appropriate management oversight over its international credit rating activities. SRUK's parent has established and maintains an Administrative Board in accordance with the EU Regulation. This includes oversight by independent non-executive directors who serve on SRG's Administrative Board.

The Board

The Board was comprised of three executive directors and two independent non-executive directors during the Reporting Period. The five members are:

- Judit Seymour (INED) - Chair
- Fernando Mayorga (INED)
- Michael MacKenzie – Executive Director
- Guillaume Jolivet – Executive Director²
- Michael Baker – Executive Director

² Chief Analytical Officer and executive board member for the Scope Group, executive board member and CEO of SRG

The Independent Non-Executive Directors

Judit Seymour was appointed as an INED in October 2022. Following a 20-year executive career in multinational leadership roles at RBS, Assured Guaranty UK Ltd and Moody's Investors Service Ltd, as well as eight years as a practising barrister, she has transitioned to several non-executive director positions.

Fernando Mayorga was appointed in December 2022. He is a Senior Finance Executive with over five years' experience at board level and over 20 years at executive level across the financial ratings industry. He is also an INED for SRG and was previously board member and CEO of Fitch Ratings España. At Fitch Ratings he was Managing Director and Global Commercial Head for the International Public Finance department for two years after being Global Analytical Head for the same sector for over 17 years.

Internal control framework

SRUK operates its own Compliance function and outsources its other internal control functions to its parent SRG. While the internal control functions operate independently from each other in their respective monitoring and control activities, they cooperate in the elaboration and update of the policy-and-procedure framework and the roll-out of training. SRUK's parent has established a three-lines-of-defence control framework to ensure development and application of robust procedures within the agency. The first line of defence refers to the activities and controls that are directly performed by the operational units within the organisation to manage risks and ensure compliance with applicable laws and regulations. These activities include the analytical rating process and related rating operations. The second line of defence refers to the internal control functions that provide oversight, monitoring and support to the first line of defence. The second line of defence includes the Review Function (hereinafter referred to as "RF"), the Compliance function, the Information Security function, the Credit Policy function and the Risk Management function. The third line of defence refers to the Internal Audit function.

The internal control functions report to the executive directors of SRUK and to the Board. They also interact directly and independently with the INEDs on a regular basis.

The Review Function

The Review Function is a key part of SRUK's internal control framework. RF operates independently from both the analytical business lines and business development. Within RF, the methodology policy and model review teams are responsible for independently approving, periodically examining and reviewing credit rating methodologies, models and key rating assumptions used in the credit rating process. RF ensures that credit rating methodologies are robust, rigorous, systematic and continuous and that they are validated, for example, through back-testing.

RF may participate in credit rating committees but has no voting rights on credit rating decisions.

Credit Policy Function

The Credit Policy function acts as an internal control function focused on ensuring credit ratings are high quality and the complete and consistent application of credit rating methodologies. As part of its monitoring activities, Credit Policy attends some credit rating committees but have no voting rights on credit rating decisions.

The Compliance function

SRUK's Compliance function operates independently from the analytical business lines and business development, and in co-operation with SRG's Compliance function. The Compliance function oversees adherence to regulatory requirements in each jurisdiction in which SRUK operates³.

The Compliance function plays a critical role in ensuring that SRUK operates with integrity and transparency and in accordance with applicable laws, regulations and industry standards. Compliance is responsible for the monitoring of regulatory developments, the implementation of appropriate policies and procedures, the training and education of staff, the execution of compliance testing and monitoring including compliance investigations in case of a potential breach of the CRA Regulation or other applicable laws, and the reporting and escalation of compliance-related issues to senior management. The Compliance function provides recommendations for remediation on identified matters. The Compliance function also maintains the relationship with regulatory authorities and collaborates with the Compliance function of its parent regarding the application of group policies such as the Code of Ethics, among other internal policies and procedures, and assesses and monitors adherence to those rules. This includes compliance surveillance over SRUK's credit rating activities. The head of SRUK Compliance reports to the UK Board and to the Managing Director of SRUK's parent responsible for the Compliance function with SRUK's parent and interacts directly and independently with the INEDs on a regular basis to address relevant compliance matters and potential compliance risks.

The Risk Management function

The Risk Management function plays a critical role for the operations of SRUK by helping SRUK identify, assess and manage risks in a manner that promotes effective risk management and supports the agency's strategic objectives. Specifically, the Risk Management function is responsible for monitoring the agency's risk exposure on an ongoing basis and to provide an independent advice in line with the Risk Appetite of the company. The Risk Management function is responsible for maintaining the agency's Risk Management Frameworks, which include Risk Appetite Statement defined in coordination with SRUK's parent, risk assessment methodologies, and risk reporting processes. The Risk Management function also oversees the relevant information and data shared during the quarterly meetings of the Risk and Control Committee (RCC), which comprises of the Executive Management and the INEDs of SRUK and its parent.

The Information Security function

The Information Security function plays a critical role in protecting the confidentiality, integrity and availability of SRUK's information assets and helps to ensure that the agency operates in accordance with applicable laws, regulations and industry standards. The Information Security function is responsible for ensuring that SRUK's information assets are protected from unauthorised access, use, disclosure, disruption, modification or destruction. It operates independent but in close coordination with the Information Technology team and develops information security policies and procedures, conducts risk assessments, maintains security controls, conducts vulnerability assessment and penetration testing exercises and provides information security training to SRUK's employees. The Information Security function is also responsible for managing security incidents and ensuring reporting to internal and external stakeholder in a timely fashion.

³ SRG endorses credit ratings issued by Scope Ratings UK Limited under Article 4(3) of the EU Regulation.

The Internal Audit function

SRUK's parent provides the Internal Audit service to SRUK. The Internal Audit (IA) operates as an independent and assurance function within Scope Ratings UK (SRUK), ensuring adherence to regulatory requirements, internal policies, and procedures. IA performs its duties according to its approved Internal Audit Charter and reports functionally to the Administrative Boards and administratively to senior management, maintaining its autonomy from the rating process and each operational activity.

Internal Audit conducts regular assessments of the SRUK's governance, risk management, and internal control framework. Key areas of focus include:

- The effectiveness of policies and procedures designed to ensure compliance with regulatory requirements.
- The assessment of the measures in place to prevent conflicts of interest and ensure analytical independence.
- The evaluation of internal systems resilience, database, and business continuity arrangements.

Internal Audit follows a risk-based approach. The audit missions are identified through the IA risk assessment and the three-year audit plan prioritising areas with higher potential impact on regulatory compliance and operational effectiveness. Audit reviews can be added based on emerging risks.

IA reports findings and recommendations to senior management and SRUK Board with follow-up actions tracked in the Internal Control Action (ICA) database to ensure timely remediation and audit trail.

The credit rating process

SRUK operates in complete functional integration with its parent SRG and according to common policies and procedures specifically approved and reviewed by the Board. The credit rating process protects the independence, objectivity and integrity of SRUK's credit rating decisions. Credit rating actions are not based on the opinion of a single individual but are rather determined by a credit rating committee involving a rating committee chair, a lead analyst and other voting and potentially non-voting expert participants. The credit rating committee follows the principles set out in, among others, SRUK's Code of Business Conduct, Rating Governance Policy, Rating Process Manual and Confidential Information Management Policy. Internal procedures cover the requirements over processes, approvals and documentation that SRUK's analytical employees have to adhere to in the credit rating process.

The credit rating methodology process

SRUK's credit rating methodologies are common to SRUK and its parent company and available on SRUK parent's public website and govern the analytical components applied in SRUK's credit rating analyses. The process for the development of new credit rating methodologies or adjustments to existing credit rating methodologies follows the principles set out in, among others, SRUK's Code of Business Conduct and Methodologies Governance Policy. The credit rating methodology review process involves representatives from the analytical business lines and RF. RF reviews the credit rating methodologies independently and has final approval over credit rating methodologies. Internal procedures cover the requirements over processes, approvals and documentation that SRUK's employees have to adhere to in the context of the credit rating methodology review process.

Public codes and policies

SRUK applies Scope Group's public Code of Ethics, as well as a Code of Business Conduct and other policies common to SRUK and its parent company, that set out the principles all SRUK employees are bound to in performing their duties. These codes and policies are updated periodically to reflect changes in applicable rules and regulations. Each year, all SRUK employees confirm their awareness, understanding and compliance with these codes and certain policies. In addition, internal procedures support and foster the steps that protect the quality, independence and integrity of credit rating activities.

SRUK's conflict management principles

SRUK's policies set out the key principles to prevent, identify, manage and, where relevant, disclose potential or actual conflicts of interest. SRUK together with its parent company have adopted policies and procedures that enable the credit rating agency to prevent, identify, assess and manage potential conflicts of interest. SRUK has put in place the following:

- SRUK's analysts who participate in credit rating activities are operationally and functionally separated from non-credit rating activities conducted by Scope Group entities.
- As an institution, SRUK does not act as a principal or market maker in securities.
- SRUK has established separations between analytical and commercial activities reflected in SRG's Commercial Separation Policy. Analysts are prohibited from participating in fee discussions with issuers or their agents and from participating in marketing activities. Business development and sales functions are provided to SRUK and its parent company via an outsourcing agreement between SRG to Scope. Scope staff are responsible for all commercial relationships with issuers and are subject to the Commercial Separation Policy common to SRUK and SRG and operationally segregated from SRUK's credit analysts and their credit rating activities.
- Internal procedures governs the methodology development and the rating processes with the objective to identify, assess and manage potential conflicts of interests.
- Analysts are not compensated or evaluated based on the revenue that SRUK derives from issuers that the analyst rates or with which the analyst interacts.
- Employees must follow specific rules regarding their personal interests, such as personal ownership of and trading in financial instruments, receipt of gifts or outside business activities. These rules are set out in the Personal Account Dealings Policy, Outside Business Interests Policy, and Gifts, Entertainment and Anti-bribery Policy.
- The SRUK's Compliance department, supported by the Compliance function of its parent company, monitors employee conduct regarding potential conflicts of interest.

Following the rotation, these analysts are subject to a two-year period in which they are not permitted to engage in credit rating activities with the same rated entity and, where relevant, their related third parties. Given its size, SRUK was granted a waiver by the FCA as per Article 7 (4) of the Regulation concerning the rotation of rating analysts.

These internal rules establish best practice standards for the appropriate and consistent handling and retention of such business records, so these are complete and readily available. SRUK established protections around the retention of sensitive information, and employees are required to take all reasonable measures to protect sensitive or confidential information and the records maintained in relation with it. Employees are also required to protect all property and business records belonging to, or in possession of, their employer from fraud, theft or misuse.
